FOUR HARBORS

Big Fleet Divided for First Time Prince of Wales to Visit Que-Since Leaving the Atlantic Coast.

THOUSANDS OF VISITORS FLEET WILL PRECEDE HIM

THE NEXT FIVE DAYS.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 19.-Tonight, positions they will maintain until next Saturday morning, when the sixteen fighting craft, again united under the flag of Rear Admiral Thomas, will get under way for Santa Barbara, the next port of welcome.

Animated Scene.

For the ships, for the officers and men, and for the people of Los Angeles this has been a busy Easter Sunday. The division of the fleet was accomplished at 6 o'clock this morning, but even at this early hour the shores of San Pedro harbor and the hills overlooking were well covered with spectators eager to witness the maneuvers of the warships. While the crowds ashore watched, suddenly the signals began to fly and within a few minutes the second division, led by its flagship, the Georgia, steamed slowly out of line and proceeded three miles across the harbor to a point opposite Long Beach. The third and fourth divisions rounded Point Firmin for a longer cruise to San Pedro, the four ships led by the flagship Maine proceeding to anchorage in the most sheltered portion of Santa Monica bay, and the fourth division, with the Alabama leading, dropping out of the column to anchor a few hundred yards off the pier at Redondo.

Thousands Lined the Beach.

At an early hour the steam and electric roads were transporting thousands of visitors to all four ports, and as the day advanced the overcrowded beach cities sent their surplus thousands of people along the stretches of sandy beach, out along the docks and piers, and up along the hills that commanded the best view of the vessels at anchor.

Not until this afternoon were visitors received on board, and after that time the people surged about the boat landings, and the bays were dotted with tiny craft, laden to the limit of safety, with men, women and children who struggled to be first aboard the big white, clean fighting machines.

Sailors in Church.

A striking feature of the service in each of the big churches of Los Angeles was the presence of squads of sailors in uniform, who were without exception given places in front pews the clergymen addressed a portion of Easter sermon. "The church squads," composed of first-class liberty men, were brought ashort early this morning and after attending devotions, were given until tomorrow morning to see the city. Armed patrols were landed at the beach cities and sent into Los Angeles, but up to a late hour there had not been a single instance of dis-

Banquets and Balls Planned.

Throughout the next five days, and while officers and men of the fleet are participating in the round of banquets, balls and other forms of entertainment devised by various committees, the people of all southern California will be welcomed aboard the battleships and each night there will a repetition of last night's splendid illumination. Judging from today's record, it is safe to say that a quarter of a million peo-"Jack" lives aboard ship.

Prince Helie De Sagan Does Not Act Like Married Man on Recent Voyage.

Paris, April 19 .- Prince Helle de Sagan, who arrived at Cherbourg and disembarked early this morning from the steamship St. Paul, essayed to resume the secrecy which he unsuccessfully sought to carry out in the United States. Instead of coming direct to Paris he left the steamer train at Evereux, about sixty-five miles from the city, after having requested his fellow passengers not to mention his plan. At Evereux he resumed his journey to Chosen by Weber Stake as

Paris by automobile. The prince declined to grant an interview to the newspapermen and refused to answer questions regarding the statement published by the Cri d Paris that he and Mme. Anna Gould already were married. The passengers on the steamer, with whom the prince freely intermingled during the voyage, say that he told them that he regretted that he could not entertain them in Paris, as he expected soon to leave that city, going probably to Italy. Some of the passengers added that the prince did not act like a married or engaged man, being devoted to a young English girl throughout the voyage. The French newspapers generally ignore the De Sagan-Gould affair, except where they ridicule the prince on account of his reported interviews and his conduct in the United States, and express the hope that "the international farce" will soon be ended.

Second Counselor to President Shurtliff.

Important among the business at the regular quarterly conference of Weber stake yesterday was the selection of Bishop John Watson to succeed the late President N. C. Flygare as second councillor to President L. W. Shurtliff of the Weber stake. The selection of Bishop Weber stake. The selection of Bishop Watson came as a surprise to many for the reason that his name had not been mentioned among those who would likely be chosen for the place.

The conference yesterday was one of the longest in the history of the stake. A large overflow meeting was held at the Weber Stake academy, which was attended by more than a thousand persons. President Joseph F. Smith attended the meeting and was among the sons. President Joseph F. Smith attended the meeting and was among the speakers. The other prominent church dignitaries who addressed the conference was Apostles Rudger Clawson and D. O. McKay, and President Anthon H. Lund. McKay, and President Anthon H. Lund. John Watson, selected as second councillor to President L. W. Shurtliff at yesterday's conference, has been prominent in business and ecclesiastical circles in Ogden for many years. He was born and reared in England and when he came to Utah he had had some experience along mercantile lines. He is 55 years of age and came to the United States in 1881, going direct to Salt Lake City, where he entered the employ of the Z. C. M. I., and the same year was appointed to a position in the Ogden branch pointed to a position in the Ogden branch of that establishment. In 1884 he became manager of the concern, which po-sition he retained until the Ogden branch was abandoned in 1906. He is also identified with a number of other Ogden enterprises, including the Utah Loan & Trust company, the Eccies Lumber company, the Amalgamated Sugar company, the Watson-Tanner Clothing company and the Watson-Flygare Hardware company. For three years he served as a member of the city board of education, and he has also served as a trustee of the Weber Stake academy, on the board of trustees of the state industrial school, and as a trustee for the state school for the deaf and blind. He was a member of the city council for two years and served on the fire and police com-mission board. He became a convert to the Mormon religion in England in 1877.

Some changes have been made in the measure since it was before the council last, most important among which is the regular saloon license fee. Originally it was decided to make this $1,200 a year, but it has now been changed to $1,000.

Another point that seems to have figured quite prominently in the controversy is contained in a section which provides that the holder "will not allow gambling in any form within the premises wherein the business is conducted." Still another section provides that "it shall be unlawful for any restaurant, hotel or boarding house keeper to sell or give away or in any manner dispose of kind of intxocating liquor by the
